Step 2: Tie a second knot over the first to keep the cord from sliding back through the hole, then pull the cord so the knot is inside the connector.

Tip: Use a water bottle or other round object in a similar size as your wrist to wrap around as you work. This will help you plan the finished look you desire.

If the hole on the bead is bigger than your knot, tie two overhand knots. Continue adding beads and knots throughout the cord in any distance desired.

Once you reach the end of the cord, repeat steps 1 and 2 to add the other end of your connector. Then simply wrap the cord around your wrist starting at one end until you reach the other and close the barrel connectors.
