Step 1: With the camo cord, make a four strand double cow’s hitch. See our tutorial for instructions.

Step 2: Bring both ends back to the non-working end and insert one end down on either side of the knots as shown.

Step 3: Insert the coyote cord through the knots at the new working end. We will number the six core strands as 1 through 6 in future steps as shown.

Step 4: Cross the left coyote cord B over cords 4-6 and under cord 3 then bring it up out of the way as shown.

Step 5: Cross the right coyote cord A over cords 1-3 then bring it up between cords 4 and 5 and above cord B as shown.

Step 6: Bring cord B down over cord A and insert it down between cords 1 and 2.

Step 7: Bring cord A down over cord B and insert it down between cords 5 and 6. You can tighten slightly now.

Step 8: Bring the right camo cord across cords 1-3 and down the center. Repeat on the right side with cords 4-6.

Step 9: Bring the left camo cord up through the space above where the coyote cords cross and between cords 3 and 4.

Step 10: Bring the same cord down between cords 2 and 3 and above where it crossed the three cords.
Step 11: Repeat steps 9 and 10 with the right camo cord going down between cords 4 and 5 in step 10.

Tighten all cords. Then repeat steps 4 through 11 until you reach the end of the bracelet.

Once you reach the end, trim and melt all ends.

This made a nine inch bracelet.
