Stitched Solomon's Dragon

Materials:
1 Solomon's Dragon Bracelet
(See other tutorial)
4 ft of micro cord
FID or needle nose pliers

{Cost for this project starts about $3.99}

Step 1: Using a fid or pliers, insert the micro cord from the back in the first space as shown. Leave a 2 inch tail.

Step 2: Insert the micro cord down into the first space directly across from the first stitch. Keep the micro cord to the left of the short cord in your bracelet.

Step 3: Coming up from the back, insert the micro cord into the space to the side of your previous stitch as shown.

Step 4: Now bring the micro cord down into the space across from the previous stitch as shown keeping it to the left of the short cord. Repeat steps 1-4 until you reach the other end of the bracelet.
Our last stitch ended at the arrow. Going across the back, bring the micro cord up through the space directly across from where you ended.

Continue the same process completing the right sides of each stitch.

Once you reach the end, secure both ends of micro cord by lacing them through a cord or two on the back side, or melt the ends together. Trim and melt any other excess cords.
